DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Regarding claim 5, the device where the outer shell comprises an attachment ring rotatable about the store side part and to which ends of a lanyard are anchored was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

As defined per claim 1, with respect to what was disclosed in the specification, the outer ring 20 does not rotate around the store side part. Similarly with respect to claim 6, the threaded clamping ring and outer shell are not on the store side part. The limitations are given little weight.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Boichut et al. ("Boichut") in view of Acord.

Regarding claims 1, 5, 6, Boichut discloses an electrical connector comprising an aircraft side part and a store-side part, the aircraft side part comprising a core 4 having a forward end containing electrical contacts (5, 13) for engaging corresponding contacts in the store-side part and an outer shell (3, 14) snap-engageable with the store-side part to securely retain the aircraft-side part in mating engagement with the store-side part while the store is being carried by the aircraft or dispenser, the outer shell adapted to be pulled off the store-side part as the store is separated from the dispenser, the outer shell being formed as a separate component or assembly, removably attached to the core and adapted to be fitted to the core from the forward end on assembly.

Boichut does not disclose the store or the aircraft/dispenser. Acord discloses a store 11 and an aircraft 12 with a connector (17,18) connecting the two. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to use the Boichut device with an aircraft and store. The suggestion or motivation for doing so would have been that Boichut discloses a quick and positive break between the mating connectors, such characteristics being required for aircraft/store releasing operations as taught in Acord (col. 1, lines 25-35).

Per claim 2, the snap-engagement is provided by a resilient finger 15 extending axially between the first and second connector parts, the finger being attached to one of the connector halves and engageable with a detent provided on the other part.

Per claim 3, the finger is attached to a ring mounted on a sleeve comprising the outer shell.

Per claim 4, the detent is a circumferential rib formed on a collar connected to the connector first half.

Per claim 7, Boichut discloses that the outer shell is provided with electro-magnetic compatibility shielding, in particular the outer shell (including elements 11, 13, 14, 3) shields the inner signal contact/conductor 5 from electro-magnetic interference, as is well known in the art.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

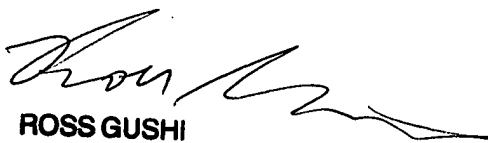

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
